A TREATISE ON THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE STATUTE OF FRAUDS-By Causten Browne, Esq .- Second Edition .- There is no better illustration of the imperfection of human language than that furnished by the statute of frauds. By whom the statute was drawn is citement to mingle with the monotony of earthly life else there would be no salt to seanot known with certainty. But whether it was written by Lord Hale, as alleged by Lord Ellenborough in his opinion in the great case of Train vs. Warlters, or by Lord Hale and Sir Lionel Jenkins, as averred by Lord Chief Baron Gilbert, or by Lord Nottingham, as stated by others, it certainly received the supervision of the ripest scholars and profoundest lawyers. And yet its most important provisions, although comprising hardly twenty-five lines, have been the subject of several separate treatises, of innumerable judicial decisions, extending through a period of nearly two hundred years, and their precise meaning as to some questions remains unsettled to

Does a conveyance of lands require a signature as well as a seal? If a signature is required can it be made by one in the presence of the grantor without written authority? Is a verbal agreement to indemnify valid? What is the difference between a license and a lease? Can one require authority without a writing to do a series of acts on the land of another? Must the guaranty of a factor selling on a del credere commission be in writing? Who can say that these or a hundred other questions which might be asked are yet actually settled?

The work of Mr. Browne is a most profound exposition of the Statute. Few decisions in either England or America have escaped his notice, and from the maze of ambiguous and conflicting opinions we think he has succeedin extracting the true doctrine with wonderful accuracy. He exposes with much boldness many erroneous decisions which have been from time to time rendered by courts, and his exposition is usually made exceedingly clear by his tracing the erroneous judgment to some misconception of a prior decision. In this way, for example, he shows how from an utter misunderstanding of Lord Mansfield's decision in the case of Williams vs. Leper has grown up a doctrine, supported by not a few judges, which would seem to indicate a dead letter of the statute in all cases of promises to pay the pre-existing debt of another, based on any new consideration, distinct from the debt and moving between the parties to the guaranty.

The work of Mr. Browne should be read and studied by every student of law. It should be in every lawyer's library. It has been printed in admirable style by Little Brown, & Co., of Boston, and is for sale at John P. Morton & Co.'s, in this city.

THE RETURN OF OUR VETERANS.—We regret that it has fallen to our city to give an ungracious illustration of the proverb that Republics are ungrateful. Thus far we have not extended a public reception to a single regiment that has arrived in our city. Our apathy is in very unfavorable contrast with the warm and generous enthusiasm of our neighbors in Indiana on the return of their gallant Hoosier boys, or with the demonstrations that everywhere else have greeted returning soldiers. Have we no pride in our troops? When bronged the sidewalks, decorated the houses with flags, and wore our happiest smiles of encouragement, cheering our departing brothers in the great cause in which they had enlisted. They now return to us after an arduous tour of service, in which they have experienced great suffering, to meet such feeble and empty welcomes as we have offered to the regiments that have up to this time arrived. They return with ranks wasted by disease and thinned in battle, and the brave boys are permitted to meet careless glances, and feel that the heart of the people has grown cold toward its defenders. They march wearily through silent streets, with less attention than the eager crowd bestows on the bright uniforms of holiday troops. And yet these war-worn veterans do not come to stay with us. They have re-enlisted. and will return to the battle-field in a few days. Our citizens are not really insensible to the merits of Kentucky's gallant troops, but they have manifested an indifference that deserves reproach. We have on several occasions urged this subject, but as yet we have found none who are ready and willing to set a movement on foot. We would now call upon the city authorities to take steps to return a becoming welcome to Kentucky's

The idea of living in this world and not enjoying some of its beauties and blessings is some what like being in an orchard filled with temp ng and luscions fruits and have constitutions cruples about tasting thereof. Philosopher ell us that humanity dearly pay for what lit and there is a general belief among Adam's representative of innocence and modesty— your humble correspondent. I had a delight-ful time. The old and trite expression of "many a flower is born to blush unseen and presented itself. Among my new acquaint-ances was a young lady of whom I deem it of sufficient importance to make special mention, from the fact of being possessed of rare and gifted conversational talent. During the short time it was pleasure to listen to this accomplished beauty. I really imagined myself in the presence of such brilliant women, and so celebrated for their conversational powers, as Madames De Stael and Piczi (Mrs. Thrale). She had the sweet silvery with a conversational powers of a verified and sensitive women's conversational powers of a verified and sensitive women's conversations. very voice of a refined and sensitive wom-an, while her knowledge was gleaned in rich an, while the knowledge was gleated in fice profusion from historical works, both ancient and modern. How the golden gleams of sentiment, the pure thought, the vivid coloring, and the bright pictures chased each other, as she made the moments unearthly in listening. And such graceful gesticulation, like the waving of the fairy's wand, that is said to reverse the laws of motion. What an ornsment, a gem, a priceless treasure (anything else you ask) would this plain, unprething else you ass) would this plain, unpre-tending country girl be, were she destined by the Fates to be the centre of attraction at the White House or the Tuilleries. Were Jeff Davis the controlling "mejum" at the "Exec-utive Manshion," I have little doubt that my ir Medora (see one of Byron's poems) would

In connection with the above I made spe-ial inquiry as to the probable amount of crops ikely to be sown the coming spring. To this he invariable reply was, "mighty little—just nough to live on." This had reference prin-ipally to the corn and cereal crops. It is exipally to the corn and cereal crops. It is ex-ected that cotton will be raised in much larger quantities than any year since the war ers and farmers have an aversion to producing anything that horses and mules digest. I preume it is the fear of having it confiscated or obbled. There are many, very many, perons in this part of the country who have topeful visions of again being visited by the ispirited legions of the C. S. A., and then woe

I find that not a few of the farms and plantations in Middle Tennessee are being worked by negroes on shares. Under the present cir-cumstance if people get enough "just to live," they are contented. The master furnishes the m, implements, bread, clothes, etc., and the slaves do the labor, receiving as a remun-eration therefor balf what they raise. My informant (a gentleman thus situated) says that one negro does more work in a day this way than he used to in a week before. Under the new order of things Sambo will have to play more on the spade and less on "de fiddle" than in former days.

GUERILLA BANDS.

This part of the State is infested by daring guerilla bands. Only a few nights ago it is diers. Have we no pride in our troops? When they left for the battle-fields three years ago we bury pike, and fired a shot at the soldier on two of those villains entered the house of seen found themselves confronted by a superior force, when they suddenly departed. The band about Chapel Hill, in Marshall county, still continue their depredations. A Union man, who had hospitably treated some Federal soldiers who passed by his house a few weeks ago, has since been visited by a number of these desperadoes, his gun taken from him (for which he had a permit), and threatened that if he showed any more favors the Yankees his house would be laid in ashes. These are the Galbraith deserters, and are themselves called "Tennessee Yankees" by those very men who have taken the oath of allegiance, wish for protection, and call themselves Union men. The whole thing is

Cavalry or mounted infantry must take the place of regular infantry in the ground wrung rom the rebels and held in our possession. It ay be strategy to have five or six regimes oing garrison duty within the corporate lim-s of a country town, and a few miles outside tion to be racking their brains about th probability of an early restoration of civil sway. On the report being heard at Camp Stevenson (three miles south of the N. and C. ailroad) of the appearance of guerillas on he Manchester pike, the officer in command, Capt. Stevenson, immediately sent a squad of numry to the place where they had demandd fire-arms, and arrived just in time to see ult, he went to Gen. Van Cleve, command s to mount a squad of infantry. The Cap, an energetic and wide-awake officer, wil be prepared to look after the marauders he way, why isn't Fort Stevenson protect y at least two batteries? It is a most in rtant point, as Wheeler well knew when he ade his raid through here last October, d burned the splendid bridge over the fork Stone river that flows by and adjacent to fort. Had there been even one piece there then, the deshing rebel could have never taken it nor destroyed the bridge. Should Wheeler come again, there is nothing in the world to hinder him from doing what he did before. It is true that the effective force in the fort has cavalry attack supported by two or three field pieces. No time should be lost in giving Capt. Stevenson a couple of "war dogs," and then with his present force of gallant Badger boys, he could keep at bay Wheeler's entire

The rolling stock on the Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad appears to have been turned over to the chief use and benefit of refugees from Northern Alabama, Northern Georgia, and the extreme south of East Tennessee, who are flying from starvation and merciless conscriptions. The cars passing by every day are loaded with large numbers of those unfortunate creatures. They are the very pictures of poverty and despair. They seem to be happy, however, in even getting away with their lives. They are all of the poorer class, and have but little education. Education is gees pride themselves upon, and the terrible picture of Jeff Davis's realm (on its last legs, happily for his serfs), as it really is to their own personal knowledge, is too much of a good thing to be spoiled by the flowery eloquence of A. H. Stephens, Vice President of the rebel region, or the bombastic flourishes of John Mitchell, the Irish reb, through the columns of the rebel region of the rebel region. umns of the Richmond Enquirer. Asking one of the refugees how whiskey (said to be an inspiring beverage) stood in the C. S. A. he replied that it cost $15 per quart in Confed he replied that it cost $15 per quart in Confederate scrip. Corn is $10 a bushel, scrip, or $1 in greenbacks. Though Northern Georgia and Alabama is nominally in possession of the rebels, the inhabitants will take "greenbacks" in preference to gold, and only take the "scrip" when afraid of being spied upon or forced to accept it at the point of rebel bayonets. This is sufficient comment upon Memminson's recomment.

DESERTERS.

On the cars were also a number of deserters from the rebel ranks at Dalton. Their story is still more pitiful than that of the refu-gees. Some of them have been in the army from nine to twelve months and have never received a cent of pay or a stitch of clothing. Part of the time they have been living on quarter rations, and at one time lately they were glad to get mule meat to eat. They re port that no Tennessee or Kentucky troops are put on picket duty, and the Georgia and Alabama soldiers guard the mutinous regiments. The privates are sick and tired and ripe for rebellion and mutiny. The officers with few exceptions, hang on to the tottering realm, and curse and d—n the Tennessee and

THE BRITISH PERIODICALS .- The following notice from the New York World gives a just idea of the republications of Leonard Scott &

Messrs. Leonard Scott & Co., of this city, to whom the world of American readers have been for years indebted for the opportunity of becoming acquainted with the best efforts of the English mind, as represented in its periodicals—Messrs. Scott & Co., we say, have sent us their Circular for the New Year, and we propose to give our readers the benefit of it, by telling them what it contains to their advantage. Supposing that they are, or may be, desirous of taking some of the English periodicals, of which they have perhaps but a vague idea, the question of choice becomes a puzzle, which they will probably be glad (or ought to at any rate) to have solved for them by those whose business it is to know all occupy in politics, religion, etc. In this mat-ter they may safely trust Messrs. Scott & Co., who have been and are familiar with it, having reprinted for years the best of the English periodicals, to the extent of five at least, which are as many as the majority can find or make time to read. The five in question are: Blackwood's Magazine, the London Qurterly, and the Edinburg, Westminster, and North British Reviews, which represent—the first, the Tory element in English politics; the second, the Conservative; the third, the Whig; the fourth, the Liberal, and the fifth, the opinions of the Free Church. For these reprints, which are made, we believe, from proof sheets of the original English editions, and which are not far behind them in point of time, Messrs. Scott & Co. have a sliding scale of prices, which is as follows:

If the lovers of good reading-the best of and entertainment - are not satisfied with terms like these (terms which might have been largely advanced, to meet the increased terprise of Messrs. Scott & Co. in giving us at such a trifling price the cream of the English periodicals. For the benefit of their old subscriing new ones, we will state that the postage to all parts of the United States is now only fifty-six cents a year for the whole five publications, viz: twenty-four cents a year for Black-wood, and only eight cents a year for a Re-view. Ten dollars and fifty-six cents for five periodicals and their postage for one year-truly "the force of cheapness can no further go." Scott & Co.'s address is 38 Walker

THE SPRING CAMPAIGN .- In reviewing the field with reference to the commencement of active hostilities in the spring, the Army and Navy Journal concludes as follows:

If these views be correct, we have to pre pare in the ensuing spring against operations on Grant's flank by way of Kuoxville in force, at a period earlier than that at which Ohio under cover of such an attack. To be safe against the first we must leave with Grant a force quite equal to that which can be brought against him, until the cessation of the spring rains enables movements to be commenced in Virginia. To render both impossible, we must then attack and capture Gordonsville. This done, we are enabled to resume the aggressive by a strong force upon Richmond, which should be done by the James river, so as to avoid wasting it, in oc-cupying unnecessarily long lines of communi-cations, all other columns being reduced to a defensive status so as to secure the possession will probably be fatal to immediate success as it will enable the enemy to operate with nearly the whole of his available force upon vital points in our system, while we are re-peating over again the blunders of the past.

GLASGOW, KY., Jan. 30, 1864. To the Editors of the Louisville Journal: GENTLEMEN: It being known in this plan plunteers, would reach this place on yes nlisted, were met in the edge of town by company H (commanded by Capt. Z. S. strowbe), of the 37th Kentucky mounted inam. Martin and several other officers mount od, when both companies and officers mount-do, when both companies and officers marched nto town, where Company F went through many military exercises, showing how com-pletely they had been drilled, after which they ave three loud and long cheers for Governor ramlette and the veterans, which was corisily responded to by the other company.

A splendid supper had been prepared for ompany F and many other veterans, including the officers of the 37th and invited guests, by Col. Royalty and his excellent lady. When the veterans marched up in front of the Royalty House they were met by J. W. Gorin Esq., who welcomed them to their homes He briefly referred to their gallant conduct or many a well-fought and bloody field. His remarks were well-timed and chosen and eminently patriotic. The speaker felt what h said, and the audience caught the feeling. thanking him for the kind and complimentary manner in which he and his men had been received by the citizens and his brother officers and soldiers; said he was quite a young man, not accustomed to public speaking; if he were he would tell his own and his men's elings on this occasion; said they had re-ented for the war, had come home to see their o do their duty, and should continue to do so. He concluded by saying (to use a soldier's phrase) that he understood they had some "fodder" prepared for them, and, when the word forward should be given, they would show them how to make a charge.

The means to defray the necessary expenses of the supper were contributed by our citizens without distinction of party. Good humor prevailed throughout, and after supper we adjourned to Wooten's Hall, and for the night forgot the war in the presence of the right eyes and bewitching influence of the had never blanched in the presence of a hostile foe, was vanquished by the bewitching influence of love's artillery.

By the 1st of May next, it is said, the At lantic and Great Western six foot gauge rail-road will be completed, on which through trains will run regularly from New York to Cincinnati and St. Louis, a distance of 1,192 miles, without change of cars. Rebel horses now have a generous diet at

THE REBEL DIFFICULTIES .- Files of Richmond papers, to the 15th inst., have reached the North. They contain some of the most remarkable articles that have emanated from that quarter. They show the rebel authorities in the saddest and most inextricable dilemmas that ever puzzled sinning mortals To maintain their stand against the fresh and well provided armies of the Union, through the approaching campaign, they The World's Hilton Head letter says that | must largely augment their present forces. An intercepted let ter from Nessau, printed in the Yankee pa pers, which came by the last flag of truce home markets for clothing materials do we find? Any one who buys beef has dis-covered that the quarters and sides are rapidly wool may be expected to decrease every month. Thus the prospect at home does not encourage the belief that we will be able to clothe armies larger than those which are now shivering in nakedness.

Richmond Whig of the 1st inst.:

An army must be fed as well as clothed.

The facts just stated in regard to the supply of beef apply with even more force to the question of subsistence than to that of clothing. Very little bacon is left, and beef is going, and mutton will hardly feed great armies, even if the supply were double what eld, much less once twice or thrice its size,

Without labor there can be no production. Our labor is that of the African slave, who requires the supervision of a white man at all times, and never more than when an unusua quantity of work is demanded of him. Wo men, lads, sexegenarians, cannot make the negro do his duty fully and faithfully; a man in the prime and vigor of lite is needed. Al-ready the fear of insurrection, occasioned by the absence of the greater portion of the armsbearing white population, has produced a leniency and indulgence among the farmers, The enemy, five thousand strong, with four leces of artillery, attacked Captain Lee at aylight, in Smithfield, entrenched. They allusion was made to the woman of the former. We were incorrectly informed. The lady is harges from the enemy until the Smith charges from the enemy were repulsed in the smith charges from the enemy were repulsed in the smith charges from the enemy were repulsed in the smith charges from the enemy were repulsed in the smith charges from the enemy were repulsed in the smith charges from the enemy were repulsed in the smith charges from the enemy were repulsed in the smith charges from the enemy were repulsed in the smith charges from the enemy were repulsed in the smith charges from the enemy were repulsed in the smith charges from the enemy were repulsed in the smith charges from the enemy until the

Again, the Whig says that an increased army must have an increase of horses. With very great difficulty horses sufficient to serve the purposes of the existing army are obtained, or forage for these horses. Yet it is proposed to double the army, and of course to increase the trains proportionately. Further, "we have never," it says, "had a superabundance of ammunition, and since the port of and thissing is 80; the enemy's loss in killed and wounded 150—heavy, owing to their superior numbers and making the attack. Soon after the capture of the Smith Briggs she was blown as the superior numbers and making the attack. Soon after the capture of the Smith Briggs she was blown as the superior numbers are superior numbers and making the attack. Soon after the capture of the Smith Briggs she was blown as the superior numbers are superior numbers and making the attack. Soon after the capture of the Smith Briggs she was not likely that we ever will have more than a were killed. We tried to get their names last full supply for the army on its present footing." And the Whig sums up in the follow-

Thus, in the last analysis, we find we have army poorly clad, scantily fed, indifferent-y equipped, badly mounted, with insufficient rains, and with barely enough ammunition. Coremedy the evil, we are going to double, ter from the agricultural districts, and leave the laborors on whom both men and horses depend for existence a prey to natural idleness, and with every inducement to revolt. ate measures adopted by feeble and affrighted councils does not present an example.

It is proposed to increase the rebel army by a wholesale conscription. It can be done in no other way. But here is another dilemma. It cannot be done in that way. Says the Whig of January 4th, commenting upon the proposition in the revel Senate to draft the whole population of the South into the army: We must, if we subtract all the most profitable producers from farming, make our cal-culations to finish the war this campaign for there will be nothing to feed an army on another year. However flattering the prospect may be of such a consummation, is it wise to stake our all on a single cast of the But, would the proposed sweeping conscrip-tion really augment our force in the field? It

Under the present law, i ook after deserters and enroll conscripts With the new proposition in force, it would take about ten times that number—which would be quite as much as would be gained by the enlarged conscription. Again, the southern railroads are as indispensable to the prosecution of the war as the army itself. Army operations cannot be carried on without them. The army cannot be supplied without them. It is absolutely necessary, therefore, that the railroads be kept in repair, and supplied with rolling stock. Here is another difficulty. How can these roads be kept in running order, with their effective working force conscripted into the army? We now quote from the Richmond Enquirer of the 12th inst.: The Senate, yesterday, passed the House bill, putting in the army all who have furnished substitutes. This (if the men proposed to be put in submit) will curtail the effective working force of a number of public institutions, whose names are "familiar as household embraced the railroads of Virginia, whose executive officers can now hardly keep them running in good order, by all the means at their command. All Virginia railroad iron is nearly worn out, and so are the men working

Notwithstanding all this, the bill mentioned passed, and it passed after such significant discussions as the following:

"If the pending bill becomes a law," said Mr. Orr, of South Carolina, who questioned its legality, "there will be great difficulty in executing it, by reason of the decisions of the courts in several of the States. We must acquiesce in the decisions of the courts, or re-Fort to measures which he was not prepare for." A Senator from Missouri (Mr. Clark) epresenting a constituency wholly beyond he action and control of our laws, replied, in urging its passage, that "in regard to the ac-tion of the courts, steps may and should be taken to remove the subject beyond their juefer our legislation to consult the views of every State Judge—to ascertain whether he will overthrow it or not by his judicial deision. We have high duties to perform. us perform them without reference to State Judges. There was a remedy against the inthe writ of habeas corpus."

The Whig says: The general "talk" among those who have bstitutes in the field is that the action of Congress will destroy public confidence in the good faith of the Government, and the conseuence will be that the financial promises or obligations of the Government will, ere long, fall below par. Already, it is understood, holders of Confederate bonds are putting them pon the market, to be disposed of at any

The last puzzle for rebel solution, presented by these late Richmond papers, which we have space to notice, is this: Matters are coming to such a pass that the necessity is discussed of establishing a military dictatorship to quiet the restless people. But the peoship to quiet the restless people. But the peo-ple (in some sections) say they will not sub-mit to a dictatorship. It will only increase the popular restlessness. There is no longer necessity that Northern ournals should labor to demonstrate the straits to which rebeldom is reduced. The rebel newspapers have taken the trouble off their hands.

Since July last between one hundred and thirty and one hundred and forty heavy guns have been landed on Morris Island, Charles-ton harbor. One of the guns weighed 27,555

THDRSDAY, FEBRUARY, 4, 1864.

The question of permanent confisca tion, which is engaging the attention of the Lower Branch of Congress, is one of deep interest and great importance. The original confiscation bill, passed by Congress a year and a half ago, was vetoed by President Lincoln on the ground that he thought the confiscation of real estate for a longer period than the life-time of the traitor was not constitutional. The bill was changed to conform to his views, and then it became a law. The attempt now in progress in Congress is to change the existing law to the form of the original bill, and we presume that the opinion of those engaged in the attempt is, that the President would at this time be willing to do what he refused to do eighteen months ago. We hope that they are not right in the opinion, but we are by no means confident that they are not. Mr. Lincoln has undergone so many changes, all in the direction of sweeping radicalism, that no one except perhaps his intimate friends can tell how many more he has undergone. The subject agitated in Congress is of immediate importance, for a large amount of rebel real estate is now in the Government custody, and some disposition must be made of it. A law for the permanent confiscation of real estate would certainly be unconstitutional, but the Constitution has very little to do now: with the action of the President and Congress. The very mention of the Constitution seems to be mocked at and derided by the whole radical party. But, even if the proposed confiscation were not prohibited by the Constitution, it would still, in the view of all just have been former mismanagement, and doubtmen, be terribly impolitic. We should at less there was original lavish outlay on the such a time as this look not only to what is | Hopkinsville Asylum, but under its present strictly constitutional or abstractly just, but | management it is above suspicion, and its to what will serve best to promote the re-es- affairs are managed with wonderful economy. tablishment of the Union and the restoration of | The recent accession of Dr. Rodman as Super the country to prosperity. ce and the taking up of rebel arms.

The New York Times, in an excellent article upon this subject, says that it can recall no instance of such sweeping, wholesale confiscations as this bill contemplates. The old Roman Empire has the name of being about as hard a conqueror as the world has seen, and yet its usage was not to confiscate the property of its enemies entirely, but to reserve for the original proprietor one-third, for the subsistence of himself and family. Cromwell's confiscations in Ireland, which have always figured as particularly severe, were yet attended with allotments in Connaught, such as the Protector deemed sufficient for family support. Russia's regime over Poland after the insurrection of 1830 has been considered almost merciless. Fifty thousand Poles were sent to Siberia. and about ten thousand estates were confiscated. But these estates were only a small proportion of the old soil of Poland. In the State of Virginia alone there are over a hundred thousand freeholds; within the limits of the "Confederacy" at least three-fourths of a million. Nearly all of this vast amount of real estate would be forfeited forever by its present proprietors if this confiscation measare were carried out according to its terms; for there is hardly a real estate owner in the South who has not participated in the rebellion in one way or another. Such sweeping work, were it practicable, would throw into the shade everything of the kind known to

The object of the Polish and the Irish confiscations was to make quiet subjects. Their tries down to the present day. The object of they only impress their provisions upon estates our confiscations must be to make willing after they are created. The repeal, therefore, no such condition as that of subjects. We may utes were revised, and separate estates existed strip these rebels of their possessions if we swer us this question: If qualified or limited | such estates to daughters or female friends, by confiscations in Ireland or Poland failed to allowing the holders to use them under their make good subjects, how will unqualified and own control for necessaries or for any purpose unlimited confiscations make good citizens?

AN AWFUL BIRD .- A Mr. Davidson, who calls himself a Southern engineer, has sent a memorial to the rebel Congress, announcing that he has contrived a machine which he calls "Bird of Art," upon the back or in the belly of which he intends to cruise about above cannon range and drop shells into Yankee camps and ships. He says:

Now, let it be supposed that the number (1,000) of these Birds of Art were stationed at the distance of five miles from a hostile military camp, fortification, or armada of war wessels; that each Artisavis was supplied with a 50-pound explosive shell, and being started dropping those destructive missiles from a point of elevation beyond the reach of the enemy's guns, then returning to the place of departure and reloading, and thus continuing the movement at the rate of 100 miles per hour. It will be seen that within the period of twelve hours one hundred and fifty thousand death-dealing bombs could be thus rained down upon the foe, a force that no defensive art on land, however solid, could withstand even for a single day, while exposed armies and ships would be almost instantly destroyed, without the least chance for escape.

According to this account one of these awful birds would make a more fatal discharge than the historic bird that blinded poor Tobit. But Davidson is the most miserable of humbugs. He was here a great many years ago cial Correspondence of the Louisville Journal. LETTER FROM FRANKFORT. ROOM NO. 40, CAPITAL HOTEL, 1 FRANKFORT, February 3, 1864. The Senate Committee on Finance have reported the various amounts of money appropriated for the benefit of the Western Lunatic Asylum, the aggregate of which is $523,000. The original building, furniture, wells, and ences cost $230,000, and the support of patients and salaries have required $189,000. The sum levoted to the reconstruction of the Asylum has been $98,000, and about $79,000 are required to complete the east and west wings and centre building in a suitable condition for occupancy. The House has already appropriated this sum, but the Senate halts, and is doubt'ul as to the propriety of giving so large a sum at the present critical condition of State affairs. The two east wings and centre building can be completed for $8,150, and $70,000 are wanted for the two west wings. The east wings are intended for females only, but now they are on compulsion occupied by both sexes. Some Senators propose to give the smaller sum, and let the Asylum do the best it can with its restricted facilities. If this policy should prevail, God pity the poor lunatics now confined in our jails and chained in cells because we have not room enough in our Asylumns to receive them. If there ever was a charity appealing to the heart of philanthropic legislation, it is this. Could Senators see some lunatics when brought to the Asylum bound hand and foot, and loaded down with manacles, and see the miracle which kindness and medical skill work as soon as the Superintendent orders the cruel cords unloosed and the barbarous manacles unlocked, and the to a human being, Senators would vote a million dollars rather than have to reflect that a single lunatic remains at the mercy of coldhearted jailers to be treated worse than felons. Yes, this terrible misfortune brings upon the head of the sufferer indignities and punishment which would not be awarded to the most cold-blooded murderer. There may cess of the institution. mined to vote in the affirmative. The Senate next voted, under the previous question to suspend the rules, to consider Senator Fisk's motion to reconsider the House rescinding resolution, which was agreed to, and the question finally came up on concurring in the House resolution rescinding the joint order for the election of a United States Senator. Senator Alexander voted in the negative, and explained the reason for his vote. Senator Bristow explained his affirmative vote. Senator Marshall voted in the affirmative, and explained his reasons for a change of his position. Senator Robinson regarded the election of a United States Sena tor at this time as most important to our State, and he could not consent to rescind the former action. The vote on concurring with the House resolution was-yeas 18, nays 16. The Legislature, being thus disembarrassed, went to work vigorously clearing away several private bills, introducing new ones, and preparing the public business that it may be despatched. In the House an important bill relative to runaway negroes was passed, which goes to the Senate. It was amended in several particulars, and it is not worth while to report it until it has been finally acted upon, and I learn that it will be reconsidered to-morrow. The bill to repeal certain sections of the statute regulating the separate estates of married women was discussed at length by Senator Goodloe in its favor, and Senator Whitaker in opposition. Senator Sampson said success may be read in the chronic discontent | the repeal of the sections would not sweep and repeated insurrections of the two coun- out separate estates, nor did they create them: citizens, for our republican system admits of | will leave the law where it stood when the statat that time, and were the creation of courts of please, but we have got hereafter to share po- equity. We should like to restrictions are desired to be removed, so as to have some of these wholesale confiscators an- carry out the real wishes of those who devised not inconsistent with the grant of estate. Senator Prall took some exceptions to the working of the amendment. Senator Robinson made an argument in favor of the repeal of the sections, which were interpolated by the codifers, and were no part of the statutes which they were called upon to revise. The reneal would restore unimpaired and untarnished the beautiful legislation and ample protection which, for nearly a century previous, had been built up in the equitable creation of separate estates. I have seldom heard an argument on a dry legal subject rendered more interesting by earnestness, historical research, and judicial ability than the remarks of the venerable Senator. He was followed by Senator Whitaker, who contended vigorously for the old statutes, and against any disturbance of the guards which it threw around the wishes of a donor. Senator Marshall favored the repeal, and the bill finally passed—yeas 23, nays 11.

Messrs. M. C. Johnson and D. A. Sayres were unanimously re-elected by the concurrent votes of both Houses as members of the Board of Managers of the Eastern Lunatic Asylum. This marked compliment was well-deserved. The result of to-day's work and the general temper of the Legislature may be thus summed up: The election of a United States Senator memorializing our Congress and appealing to has been postponed until after the Presidenmall manner of Editors in order to procure the tial election; and the session of the Legislameans of hatching the identical bird which is ture extended beyond to-morrow, when the the subject of his memorial to the rebel Con- constitutional term expires, and the indicapress. result. It is regretted by many that Kentucky could not, at this present time, have offered a new test of her loyalty by the election of a gentleman to succeed Senator Powell, DILLIN WHID while others are of the opinion that the best interests of the State will be promoted by the postponement, in order to await new developments, the probable defeat of the rebels, and the reconstruction of our divided nationality. Friends in whom I have great confidence take these widely different views, and, as the delay has been determined upon, let us hopefully trust that it will eventually prove blessing and a benefit to the State. The ailure to elect will be regarded in some quarters as a weakening of devotion to the oft-reterated platform of Kentucky principle or he conduct of the war, but this is not ten ble, and, at the proper time, these principles will be reasserted with as marked unanimity as when they were first enunciated in the midst_of civil strife and the distractions which so nearly rent our State in twain. Kentucky repudiates now, as ever, the dangerous heresy of secession, is for a igorous prosecution of the war, and is posed to resisting attacks upon the Federal Government by the infraction of the Federal Constitution? The failure to elect a United States Senator has no political significance; its real cause was that personal friendship prevented the members of the Legislature from relinquishing the support of their respective candidates until Governor Bramlette was nominated, and then the great satisfaction which he has given in the executive chair, his complete knowledge of the military necessities of the State, and unwillingness to distract the people by a general election for his successor, which the constitution would wretched patient receives the treatment due have rendered necessary, combined to induce his true and devoted friends to resist the temptation of heaping additional honors upon him. SHARP PRACTICE OF A CONFIDENCE WOMAN. Our readers may have read an account of a woman, representing herself as the wife of Gen. Foster, having been arrested in Cincinnati a few days since, charged with obtaining oods under false pretenses at Indianapolis. he was sent back to the latter place to answer the grave charges, but it would seem from her arrival in this city yesterday that she has either escaped from the officers at that place or been discharged. However this may be, the notorious Mrs. Major-General Foster, alias Fisher, arrived in our city yesterday with an estimable lady, whose acquaintance she had formed on the cars, and, upon reaching the Louisville Hotel, succeeded in contracting a loan of ten dollars from the aforesaid lady upon the strength of her distinguished name. Her suspicions were aroused after dinner by observing Mr. Phil. Judge in conversation with the lady whom she had victimized, and, approaching them, she returned to Mr. Judge the money which she had borrowed, remarking that she would be compelled to seek a less expensive boarding house, as she had been robbed of all the money in her possession shortly after her arrival at the hotel. She then hastily gathered her baggage and left. The officers were put on her track, but it is very doubtful whether they will succeed in cavalry. We were unable to learn the cause arresting her, as she is said to be a very slip- of the difficulty. The Captain was arrested, HACK RIDING .- Most of the hack drivers in Louisville, and, as we are told, all of them, regularly charge at least double what the law allows. This ought not to be tolerated. Perhaps the law ought to be changed, but, changed or unchanged, the hack drivers should be required to conform to it. If they don't they should be reported and subjected to the prescribed penalty.

Perhaps the rates of charge allowed by law not high enough for the times. The price of food has greatly increased, but feed is but a single item of a hackman's expenses, and the increase in the price of it does not by any means call for double charges. If the city authorities think any change expedient, let them make it. Then let the hackmen be held to their responsibility. And let them be held to it now. The extortion practised is beyond all endurance.

THE REBEL COL. HAWKINS .- It was dispovered, shortly after the departure of the rebel Col. Hawkins from our Military Prison for Camp Chase, that this distinguished individual had stolen two pistols, one from the hospital and one from Captain Pratt's office, while he was paroled to the yard of the prison. He has since written a letter to one of the officers at the prison, stating that he took them for the purpose of facilitating his escape, had an opportunity offered. The pistols were found on his person when he arrived at Camp Chase. We hope the officers in command at his new quarters will keep a close surveillance over him, as he is bent on following the example of his friend John Morgan. Some of the Colonel's friends, not a thousand miles from this city, will no doubt feel embarrassed to learn that the great orator has a "hankering arter" other people's property.

THE FAIR-FOURTH NIGHT .- One-half the time prepared for the continuance of the Fair for the Orphans at Masonic Temple has passed away, and there are thousands of liberal and generous men and women in the nity, well-disposed to this particular charity, no doubt, who have not yet availed themselves of the privilege to contribute to the Asylum fund. Let all such hasten to lay their offerings on the altar of charity. We are glad to learn that the success of the Fair, to a moderate extent, at least, is no longer problematical. generous effort on the part of our citizens will insure for the Orphans a benefit equal to any they have ever given to a similar

NEWBERN, N. C., Jan. 1. To Majar-General Butler: Early this morning our outposts at Bach-elor's Creek were attacked by the enemy, represented to be in force 14,000 strong, consist-ing of Hoover's brigade and Pickett's division. It being impracticable to make an adequate defence, our forces fell back in good order, destroying the camps, abandoning but few stores, with a loss of from 50 to 100 men. Our forces are now so arranged that we are confident of a successful resistance.

Almost simultaneously with this attack the nemy advanced on the south side of the Trent, with what force it is difficult to estimate, but were handsomely repulsed. Communication continues with Morehead City, but the enemy are near the railroad with the and will use every effort to prevent the road from being torn up.

It is with regret that we announce the death of Capt. W. C. Mann, who expired at his residence, at Cincinnati, at 10 o'clock last Monday night, aged 47 years. All the flags of boats at the wharf at Cincinnati wer at half-mast on Tuesday in respect to his memory. In 1845 Capt. Mann, in company with others, establi the first Memphis Packet Company, and at the time of his death was part owner of the steamers W. C. Mann, Jewess, and Princess. He was President of the Magnolia Insurance Company about two years, and was highly respected by steamboatmen and business men generally throughout the West. He was kind and courteous to all, and of a liberal disposition.

Recovering for an instant from the shock—for his neck was not broken—he said—perhaps incoherently: "Release me quick, if you please." For some ten minutes the unfortuna'e man lay thus upon his back, without moving a muscle. Meantime the officers and men, whose painful duty it was to see to the moving a muscle. Meantime the officers and men, whose painful duty it was to see to the execution of the law, adjusted this time two parts of the same rope instead of one, and the half conscious man was borne up the fatal steps a second time, being partly supported upon the drop until the double noose had been adjusted.

the following graphic account of the discovery of human bodies in Pompeii by M. Fiorelli; store and rubbish, a vacant space was discovered, at the bottom of which appeared something looking like bone. M Fiorelli was sumthing looking like bone. M. Fiorelli was summered in haste, and he conceived a luminous idee. He poured in some liquid plaster, and the seme operation was proposed in the seme operation. the same operation was performed at other points where benes had been likewise discovpoints where benes had been likewise discovered; and as soon as the plaster was hardened, the mould was lifted with the greatest precautions, and on the hardened as hes and lava being removed, four corpses appeared. They are now at the museum, and no more striking sight is it possible to behold. They are not statues, but I man bedies moulded by Vesuvias. and preserved from decay by that envelops of lava which reproduces the clothes, the flesh, nay, almost the appearance of life. The bones protrude here and there where the molten liues, but I uman bodies moulded by Vesuvius, exhumed Pompeians are human beings in the act of dying. One of the bodies is that of a no one kn ws you, and live and die happily. we man, near whem were found ninety-one silver coins, two silver vases, some keys, and a few jewels. She was flying, carrying her most valuable commodities with her, when she fell in the little narrow street. Her head dress, the tissue of her clothes, and two silver rings on her finger, can easily be detected. One of the hands is broken, and the cellular structure of the bones exposed to view. The left arm is raised and writhing, the delicate hand convulsively shut. The nails appear to have entered the flesh. The whole body appears swol-Ien and contracted; the legs alone, the rounded and delicate outline of which has not suffered, are stretched out.

You can feel that she struggled long in fearful pain. Her attitude is that of agony, not ceath. Behind her a woman and a young girl had fallen. The former, the mother possibly, was of humble extraction, to judge from the size of her ears. On her finger is a single iron ring. Her left leg, raised and bent, denotes that she also struggled and suffered. Near her reclines the young girl-almost a child. The tissue of her dress is seen with wordrovs distirctness—the sleeves coming down to the wrist, and the embroidery on her her dress over her head. She fell with her face to the ground. One of her hands hall open, as hough the had used it to keep her veil over her face. The bones of her fingers protiuded through the lava. She appears to ave died easily.

The fourth body is that of a man—a Colossus. He is stretched on his back, as though be meant to meet his fate bravely; his arms and legs show no signs of struggling; his clothes are very distinctly marked; the bracco (tronsers) close fitting; laced sandals, the soles studded with thick nails; on one finger an iron ring; a few teeth are broken, his eyes and hair are obliterated, but his thick moustache is clearly apparent, and it is impossible not to be struck with the martial and resolute appearance of his features. After the women are ance of his features. After the women, con-vulsively clinging to life, we see here the man, calmly meeting his fate in the midst of the great convul ion—imprividum perient ruinæ. Nothing yet discovered at Pompeii offers us anything to be compared with this palpitating drama. It is violent death, with it's suprem tortures, its convulsions and agonies, brought THRILLING SCENE ON THE ICE-A Woman Rescued from a Perilous Situation.—Monday afternoon, about two o'clock, an exciting scene was witnessed by thousands who were gathered upon the levee. The landing was lined with throngs of people, congregated in expectation of the immediate breaking up of the ice in the harbor. Conversation buzzed along the ranks of men, women, and children canvassing various topics connected with the dangers that were anticipated at such a crisis. The ice ated by the rays of the sun, or by the wa'er that bubbled up from beneath and overflowed appeared from the sight at these points where the boats had ploughed into the great field, and broken it up into huge, unshapely cakes.

At quarter past ten the prisoner emerged from the door of the jail in company with the clergymen, and walking to a wagon in front, climbed in unassisted, and took his seat upon his ceffin. The next moment the caralleade moved, passing with slow and measure of the form of a wemap, the only being there was to be a non the ice. She had s opped picking her adventurous way, and stood motionless, except as the cold floor bore her gently on. All eyes were best earnestly and auxiously upon her, and the crowd wa'ched with a most breathless interest. "Go back! go back!" was shouled from hundreds of throats, seemingly unheeded, the fact that at that distance the idvice could not be heard. JAUNDICE, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a Disordered .

THEY CONTAIN NO ALCOHOL OR BAD WHISKEY!

Induced by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Heefland's German Bitters (purely vegetable), hosts of ignorent Quacks and unscruptions adventures have opened upon suffering humanity the floodgates of Nostrums in the shape of poor whiskoy, viley compounded with injurious drugs, and christened Tonics, Stemachies, and Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable array of Alcoholic preparations in plethoric bottles and big bellied kegs, under the modest appellation of Bitters; which, instead of curing, only aggravate disease, and leave the disappointed sufferer in despair.

Do you want something to strengthen you? Do you want a good appetite? Do you want to build up your constitution? Do you want to feel well? Do you want to get rid of nervousness?

Do you want energy? Do you want to sleep well? Do you want a brisk and vigorous feeling? 6 56 If you do, use Hoofland's German Bitters.

From Rev. J. Newton Rrown, D. D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge. Aithough not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects, I yet know of as sufficient reasens why a man may not testify to the beneats he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. U. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chieff an alcoholic mixture. I am Indobted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, Eag., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them, when suffering from great and long-continued debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present yoar, was followed by had almost despaired of regaining, nk God and my friend for directing n hem. J. NEWTON BROWN.

A. BURWELL,

Oensumption, and by curing the first we prevent the latter.

The synoptoms of Catarrh, as they generally appear, are at first very slight. Persons find they have a cold, and find that they have frequent attacks, and are more sensitive to the changes of temperature. In this condition the nose may be dry, or a slight discharge, thin and acrid, afterward becoming thick and adhesive. As the disease becomes chronic the discharges are increased in quantity and changes in quality; they are now thick and heavy, and are either got rid of by blowling the nose, or elies they fail into the throat and are hawhed or coughed off. The secretions are offensive, causing a bad breath; the voice is thick and nail; the eyes are weak; the sense of smell is isseened or destroyed; deafness frequently takes place.

By the sld of the Liquid Catarrh Bemedy all these symptoms can be effectually ramoved.

Price of the Catarrh Bemedy $2-sufficient for use one month, with full and clear directions, sent by express. Sold by all Druggists.
